VIENNA DESERTED.

The Philadelphia Exposition.

Invitations To Be Sent to the Crowned Heads.

Vienna has assumed her accustomed appearance, ad there are but few strangers now in the city.

The Prater is still a busy place, for the work of removing the goods from the Exposition will take some weeks before it is ended. The American goods will be down at Trieste by the 1st of December, but the Guard will not reach home until the spring. It is a fair estimate to say that at least one-hall of the things exhibited, especially the machinery, have been sold; consequently the delphia Commissioners secure something besides mineral specimens, which may be had for asking an time to send home.

THE PHILADELPHIA EXPOSITION. few days prior to the general break-up a number of prominent representative gentlemen were discussing the Philadelphia Exposition at the residence of our minister, Mr. Jay. The general opinion seemed to prevail that the Philadelphia Commissioners had not been furnished with extensive powers enough to do much good here. The sioners themselves spent some three dayssay eighteen hours—in the Exposition building, in hich space of time they had of course but little time to speak with exhibitors and government representatives. They left an excellent representave, who, however, had not powers enough to do much. Now, I believe, the power has been confided to another gentleman, who has merely to see that the mineral specimens and other things secured are properly shipped at Trieste. It seemed to be the view of these gentlemen that, had the Commissioners been in Vienna all summer and entered energetically into negotiations with the government representatives here, they might have secured several valuable and characteristic exhibits, which are now on their way back and may never be seen again.

Among other things discussed was the matter of

from duty, or making a considerable reduction for goods sold. This would certainly be a great inducement to European exhibitors and manufacturers. The only difficulty would be that there would be too many exhibitors sending too many articles. Thus, in the branches of meerschaum pipes and Russian leather goods Vienna would send a shipload herself, and even without any reduction of duty being made would drive an immense business. Europe will likewise send us a deluge of pictures, the greater part of them second and third rate. Since the Philadelphia Commission has decided to permit sales to be made it will be very necessary that the lines be distinctly drawn for the guidance of the European Commissions, so as to prevent goods or articles of one description being sent over to a greater extent than is necessary for the purpose of exhibition. I am informed that Mr. Jay has sent in a lengthy

REPORT OF THE VIENNA EXPOSITION

Washington, together with suggestions to the State Department in regard to Philadelphia. I may be excused for speaking of one suggestion, as It appears to me exceedingly valuable. He speaks the invitations that should be extended to foreign rulers, who, if they do not accept in person, will send over their crown princes or representative men. Now Vienna has had over a hundred visits from crowned heads and hereditary princes and princesses. A great number of these, especially the younger generation, will doubtless accept the invitation, which, however, should not be confined simply to Philadelphia and the Exposition, but be extended to a visit to the whole of our great Continent, from Niagara Falls to New Orleans, from New York to Chicago and the plains and across to California, letting them see the enormous extent of country, the great industrial centres, providing buffalo hunts and pleasant excursions, taking them everywhere free of expense. The royal guests would, of course, free of expense. The royal guests would, of course, the followed by the ablest of European correspondents, whose letters home would do much in inducing emigration to our shores. Such a princely hospitality will cost Uncle Sam some millions of dollars, but while we are about it there is no use in doing things by halves. The year 1876 is to be the lestal year of the Hepublic. It comes only once a century, and let Uncle Sam extend his invitations to the kings and rulers of the world, and then show the world that he understands well how to receive and treat them in a truly royal, if republican, style. The general ideas embodied in the above to the kings and rulers of the world, and then show the world that he understands well how to receive and treat them in a truly royal, if republican, style. The general ideas embodied in the above paragraph will be found, I think, in Minister Jay's report and suggestions, which ought not to be withheld from the public.

AUSTRIAN POLITICS.

The Exposition closed, Austria is now turning her attention to home politics, and is endeavoring to stem over the financial difficulties which threaten to come on Vienna at any moment. The financial crisis is the result of over speculation. This view is taken by the Emperor Francis Joseph in his speech on the 5th, on opening the Austrian Reichstrath. Of the many royal and presidential addresses which have been made this month in the several European States, this one by the Hapsburg is certainly the most important and pleasing. In the elections for the new Austrian Reichstrath the united parties of unity and moderate liberais have gained the victory over their opponents, the federalists and ultramontanes. Francis Joseph's throne speech which now characterizes the new Reichstrath. The Emperor seems to confide fully in the factors of the new period, as if determined to cut loose from the past and its gloom. He is full of hope and confidence in the future of the Empire. He invites his Parliament to work hand and hand with his government in consolidating and promoting constitutional life; not to touch the guaranteed rights of the single lands, but at the same time to promote the unity and power of the Empire. He speaks of the recent financial crisis as a result of the single lands, but at the same time to promote the unity and power of the Empire. He speaks of the recent financial crisis as a result of the single lands, but at the same time to promote the unity and power of the Empire. He speaks of the recent financial crisis as a result of the outer of the capital power and the over-tension of credit, and promises that his government will make propositions for relief to raise up concluding portion of the address, referring to the Exposition and Austria's present position, is interesting:

"In spite of the obstacles with which the exposition had to contend, this greaf undertaking came to a brilliant and successind development. It has had a benedicial influence on the intellectual and economical lite of the nations in the promoting of civilization, in vitalizing the spirit of invention and industry, and in bringing to appreciation the value of labor in all parts of the world. I can say with a pieasurable satisfaction that in this peaceful rivalry of the nations Austria has contested in honor, and has achieved a success which fills the patriotic heart with pride and nope.

"The visits which the rulers of neighboring and distant kingdoms have paid to me during the Exposition have made closer the bonds of irendship with these empires, increased the piedges of peace and given a higher dignity to the position of the Austrian monarchy. And now, after great changes and severe conflicts, Austria stands, internally rejuvenating herself, to the outer world imposing; the restrictions which once hemmed free progress in all the departments or nabily it has been removed, and we have entered upon a road which leads to the solving of the great problem—the uniting of the peoples of Austria to a powerful state, bearing the ideas of right and of freedom. Let us work together on this mission with united forces, and our efforts will result to the honor and weal of our beloved Austria."

The Emperor Francis Joseph concludes on the 2d of December the first 25 years of his government. He succeeded his uncle, Kuiser Ferdimand L, who abdicated in the year 1848. He has become transformed in this peried from one of the prealest despots to one of the most liberal and constitutional monarch's of Europe. The occasion is to be celebrated in a calm, rational manner.

The large Vienna newspapers have just published a mutual declaration of their hability to stand at present rates. The price of puper and printing, salaries

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7, 1873. Probability of a Row on the Eack-Pay

Business. There has been a deal of informal caucusing and interchanging of opinions to-day on the back-pay question—that is, on the restoration of the increase of pay received by members of the present Congress since the 4th of March last. All avow in public their desire to have this increase deducted rom the reduced pay to be received, yet all secretly hope that they can keep it. It will not be at all surprising if there be yet a grand row in the House on this back-pay question, in which masks and cloaks may be mercilessly stripped from hypocrital wearers.

The Salaries Bill-Majority and Minority Reports of the Committee To Be

The Special Committee appointed by the House to consider the repeal of the bill increasing the pay of members of Congress have finally agreed, by a vote of 5 to 2, to report substantially Niblack's bill, repealing the present law and reviving the old law as far as it relates to the pay of the Vice President, Senators, Speaker, Representatives and Delegates, to take effect on and after its passage. The President, members of the Cabinet and Supreme Court escape. This would fix the pay of members at $5,000 per annum. Provision is made to allow actual traveiling expenses and to cover into the Treasury all amounts turned in by members or not yet drawn. Mr. Kasson will submit a minority report to the effect that the bill should reduce all the salaries increased, save those of the President and the Judges of the the Supreme Court, which are protected by a provision of the constitution. Mr. Niblack proposes that no traveiling expenses shall be allowed for this session, the increased pay to date from the passage of the proposed bill and to be accepted in lieu of the allowances to be made after this session. The bill will not be acceptable to a majority of the members, and when it comes up for discussion buncombe speeches will be in order.

Mr. Williams' Friends to Press To-Day. An effort will be made to press the confirmation of Attorney General Williams to-morrow, and his friends are confident that he will go through with Senator Carpenter's Sentinel. Senator Carpenter is reported to have purchased the Milwaukee Sentinel, and will not hereafter depend upon other journals for vindication of his character.

Senator Conkling and Judge Poland have on their hands, as chairmen of the Senate and the House committees on the revision of the laws, that gigantic legislative elephant, the Revised Code. Alter a dozen lawyers, more or less, had tinkered on it for a dozen years, at considerable expense, it was placed last spring in the hands of that able jurist, Thomas J. Durant, formerly of the New Orleans Bar, with instructions to restore all the eliminated portions and to give uniformity to the work. Since completing this task Mr. Durant has added side notes showing the origin of each provision. The two committees must now sit in judgment over his work, and then the Revised Statutes at large will be ready for approval and enactment by Congress. They will have to be read at length in each House, and the committee hope to put them on their passage without discussion. If the floodgates of Congressional oratory are once opened on them no one can say how many months ill be thus consumed.

A Huge Railroad Scheme-A Proposed

Air Line from New York to Chicago. The greatest scheme that has yet shown its hand in Washington is a bill carefully prepared, and to be introduced in the Senate at an early day, entitled "The New York and Chicago Air Line Railway and Telegraph Company," The road is to be commenced within two years and finished in six years, constructed with double track and laid with steel rails, with permission to lay double branch and St. Louis, and privilege to extend the track from St. Louis to Omaha. The capital is fixed at $100,000,000, with right to purchase existing roads, which shall be relaid with steel rails. The rate of fare is to be fixed at not more than three cents per mile. In return for their franchise, carrying the mails and sending government telegrams at its own rates, all the company asks is permission to import, free of duty, all the rails and material necessary for the construction of the road.

Decision in a Cuban Sequestration

Case. The United States and Spanish Claims Commission have decided the case of Foulke, administrator ing out of the sequestration of estates amounting to $18,000, with interest. The claimant urged that and by the express terms of the embargo itself, the title of the parties affected by it was not divested, and that upon the death of any such party the property embargoed passed to his distributees; that by the laws of the United States all persons born therein are citizens thereof and entitled to protection against unlawful detention of their property, and that Emma Cisneros is such a citizen, and her property cannot be detained by Spanish embargo. The brief shows that Edwardo Cisneros was formerly a resident of Havana, and removed to and resided in New York from the 12th of February, 1868, to the 4th of May, 1871, when he died intestate. Emma Cisneros was born in New York in April, 1870. There being a difference of opinion between the United States and Spanish arbitrators, Baron Lederer, the umpire, has decided that the child of a Spaniard, born in the United States, is not a citizen of the United States within the intent of the Convention.

A "Carpet-Baggers'" Civil Rights Con-

There is to be a grand National Convention of colored citizens here this week, which has not the approval of many of our most respectable residents of African descent. They say that it has been gotten up by some ambitious "carpet-baggers" of notoriety. Some 25 or 30 bona fide colored citizens of different States will come, but the balance will be composed of restaurant keepers, hotel waiters, department messengers and other "carpet-baggers," really located here, but who will claim to represent States as delegates. Fred Douglass was urged to dignify the assemblage by presiding, but he has left on a accturing tour. About 16 Louisiana, headed by Colonel James Lewis. ## GRANT'S LAST CHOICE.

The Indignation of the Press Over the Nomination of George H. Williams for Chief Justice-Severe Criticism.

The nomination of Attorney General Williams for for chief Justice calls forth more criticism in the press of the country than any act of the Pressdent's since his second inaugural. The following are some of the later "opinions" from both sides of the political "division fence," the scandalous innuendoes as to the influences that it is said led to the nomination being passed over The Philadelphia Press (republican), after referring to the services of Taney and Chase, and the death of the latter, remarks:—

George H. Williams took up the ermine of the office so full of responsibilities and honors. He is an unpretending, studious man, and a sound navea, and will be a Conservative chief Justice. He has never been called a great man, but he has always been a sale one.

The Milwankee Sentinet (republican) says:-When Grant was in the army everybody gave him credit for selecting the right man for the right place, and it is possible his traditional sagacity has led him aright in this instance, but we have our doubts about it.

The Evansville (Ind.) Courier says:—
Judicial positions in the United States at the present time seem to be going a begging, and legal taient and judicial ability is a lamentably scarce commodity. Last night's telegrams bring is the intelligence that the President has nominated Geo. H. Williams to the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court, and the individual on whose shoulders the ermine of the judiciary which fell from the shoulders of Chief Justice Chase is to rest. The mante of Marshall, Taney and the distinguished gentlemen who graced that exalted position draggles in the dust, and, so far as the most high Bench is concerned, one can scarcely refrain from exclaiming, "How have the mighty fallen!" Williams is, without doubt, an obscure lawyer—possibly some mute, ingiorious Milton—rather, we might say, recognizable only as one of the White House flunkeys, and is about to reap the reward of the faithful servant in that connection.

The Milwaukee News (independent) says:— The Evansville (Ind.) Courier says :-

The Milwaukee News (independent) says:-The Milvaulkee News (independent) says:—
President Grant has a rare knack of drawing around him and pressing into the public service a class of people who never previously carned sufficient distinction in any walk of life to be lifted above the level of what might be called no-bodies. It is easily explicable on the theory that like attracts like. It, nowever, he has no comprehension of the qualities required in the Chief Justice of the United States, ne ought to know enough of our national history to know that the consistent is extensed the most exatted in the land. Presidential appointments generally, it is no

The Pottsville (Pa.) Standard says :--The nonination of George H. Williams as Chief Justice of the United States and its probable confirmation by the Senate is one of the evil irruits our partisan pointics are continually bearing. We have no faith in the stories affecting the private character of Mr. Williams, but he is unfit for the position to which the President has appointed him. The Indianapolis Sentinel (independent) thinks

The President's new Chief Justice has not fallen on a bed of roses. If rumor is to be credited the opposition to his confirmation is growing with rightful rapidity, while the air is thick with dis-graceful stories concerning his private life.

The St. Louis Republican (independent), after discussing Grant's later appointments and comparing them with the statesmen of previous administrations, asks:—

When before did we have such a Secretary of State as Fish, such a Secretary of the Treasury as Richardson, such a Secretary of War as Belkhap, such a Secretary of the Navy as Borie of Robeson, such a Atorney Generals as Akerman and Williams? Hardly a single one of these "constitutional advisers" was ever heard of beyond the limits of his immediate neighborhood until the stroke of Presidential lightning knocked him from obscurity into prominence. Not one of them, in any political rigine prior to 1861, would ever have been even thought of as suitable Cabinet material.

Evidently the President has learned nothing and forgotten nothing, and proposes to continue as he has begun. With such a Cabinet, such foreign Ministers and such a Chief Justice, he may confidently trust that history will lose sight of his own feebleness in the chronic imbeculity of the large proportion of those individuals who adorn his administration. ministrations, asks:-

The Columbus Statesman (democratic) says: President Grant has again given a surprise to the country in the appointment of Attorney General Williams as Chief Justice of the United States. Mr. Williams was the most unfit man of any that were urged for the position. As a Senator he was weak, and when the President made him Attorney General surprise was manifested in ever quarter. The New Orleans Herald (democratic) thus expresses its disapproval:-

presses its disapproval:—
In all his long career of reckless deflance of public opinion General Grant has perpetrated no act more flagrantly audacious than the appointment of Attorney General Williams to be Chief Justice of the United States. A few servile partisan journals may applana this appointment, out the public can not help regarding it as only another one of the many proofs which General Grant has given of distinguished incapacity and eminent unfitness for the duties and responsibilities of his position. Whether or not Mr. Williams is a man of intellectual ability sufficient

The Bridgeport (Conn.) Farmer (democratic) thinks that—

The nomination of so inferior a man and lawyer as Mr. Williams for the position of Chief Justice will be received with regret, if not surprise. The republican papers pay the nominee the left handed compliment of saying that a worse man might have been chosen. It is a humiliating evidence of the demoralization and degeneracy of the times to see such a man occupying, not filling, the seat once adorned by the learning and ability of an Ellsworth, a Marshall and a Taney.

The Kansas City Times (democratic) says:— The Kansas City Times (democratic) says :-

The Kansas City Times (democratic) says:—
As if disgusted and indignant at the unseemly scramble for the position, the President took early occasion to armounce that he would not make the appointment until Congress met, and further, that partisan feeding would in no way influence the selection. Right in the face of such public avowals to appoint a man of judicial learning and emment worth, squarely contradictory to solemn piedges, Grant casts the rope once worn by the greatest of jurists over the shoulders of an obscure politician and pettilogging lawyer. This man, George II. Whamsby name, was once a Senator, a United States States senator, representing the State of Oregon. In reward for devotion to Grantism in the Senate Williams, shortly after the expiration of his term in that body, was made Attorney General of the United States.

The Burlington (Iowa) Gazette (democratic) where Mr. Williams once resided, after declaring that soon after Mr. Chase's death it prophested this appointment, because "Mr. Williams has the bidding of men in power in order to ejevate himself to places of prominence, and was known to be in the interest of corrupt corporations and would pander to the influences of men in power to sustain the rings about Washington," remarks:-

Williams is one of those corrupt democrats who forsook the party as soon as it got out of power, in order to attain position and influence in another party. In a word, he sold ins principles for place, and this is what he is capable of doing, prompted by his inordinate ambition.

The Cincinnati commercial (independent) as

It should be scornfully rejected by the Senate. Williams owes his success to persistent toadying of the President, to Boss Shepheru's Improvement Ring and to petty social influence. Williams is one of the rapidly enriched men of the District—a man of no capacity as a statesman, and of little reputation as a lawyer. The country is shamed by the appointment of this man, who has never rendered a public service either conspicuous or memorable. There is no act of his life, no merit as a lawyer, no fame as a pickler, no reputation as a jurist, no force of character or strength of mind, no record, no hopes, to warrant or excuse this preposterous appointment—of which we can only say at last, that it is emmently characteristic of President Grant.

To say that the profession of the law was astonished at the announcement of the selection of Attorney General Williams for the above position would not express the truth. They demanded to know how he was related to Grant or his prolific wife.

It is well known that Williams was an obscure judge in the obscure State of Oregon for a time, and worried through the docket of his court without any special disprace; but that he ever attained or ever can attain to any eminence in the profession or on the bench is not to be anticipated. That the great minds of the country should be set aside to make place for personal favorites of the President should not astonish us at this day in the history of the present administration.

BISHOP CHENEY IN CHICAGO.

Sermon by Bishop Cheney, of the Reformed Protestant Episcopal Church-The Doctrine of the New Sect-An Immense Congregation and Loud Applause. CHICAGO, Dec. 7, 1873.

Rev. Charles |Edward Cheney, rector of Christ Church of this city, and recently elected missionary bishop for the Northwest of the Reformed Episcopal Church, preached to a vast congregation to-night. His subject was "The New Church," and his text the Twenty-second verse of the last chaphear of thee what thou thinkest; for as concerning this sect, we know that everywhere it is spoken against."

against."

Mr. Cheney reviewed at length the cause leading to the present secession, impeaching the Protestant Episcopai Church, especially the ritualistic party. In most severe terms. He showed that reform and revolution went together, and in reply to the objection that it was a new seet declared that it offered the open door in its freedom of service to thousands who, believing in liturgical worship, yet refused to be reordained or confirmed. In eloquent terms he spoke of the persecution against which early Christians struggled and which martyred Cranmer, and said it had now its home in the Cranmer, and said it had now its home in the Protestant Episcopal Churen. He claimed all benefits of true apostolic succession for the new Church, and that within a mouth two congregations would be formally started in this city. He spoke in a most hopeful way of the huture of the new Church, contending that in contradistraction to the Roman Catholic, Anglo-Catholic and Protestant Episcopal Church it was a Church of the laity, in which the priesthood were not to be all and not to end all.

The discourse was listened to throughout with intense interest, and the preacher more than once was londy applicated.

An important business meeting of the Church is called for to-morrow-night to take action in the premises.

The Mayor of Rodney, Miss., writes, under date of November 30, to the Vicksburg Democrat:— The Mayor of Rodney, Miss., writes, under date of November 30, to the Vicksburg Democrat:—

On Friday morning, about ten o'clock, I was coming up from the steamboat landing and passed two well dressed men, well mounted, standing at the lorks of the road, in the lower part of the town, apparently watching for some one. They spoke very politely as I passed, and I saw at a glance that they were strangers, but took no further notice of them. About one o'clock P. M. I received a telegram to look out for four men, well mounted and all wearing blue army overcoats. The despatch was from Dr. M. S. Johnson, of Franklin county, stating that he had been robbed of $8,000 the night before. As soon as I received the telegram I went to the ferry randing, and found that the robbers had crossed and that the ferryboat had run aground on that side. Just at that time the John Kyle landed at St. Joseph, five miles above Rodney. I instructed Mr. Evans' bookkeeper at the landing to write to Waterproof and nothy the people of that place what had been done and that the robbers would probably come in that direction. The Kyle took the letter to Waterproof, where she landed before night. There was a party of about 20 men, wnite and black, collected together, who started to look after the robbers, and they found them resting in Kemp's lane, just above Waterproof. The robbers had one man stationed on the robad as vidette, and the party came up to him, when he fired on them, wounding one of the negroes, and he then ran back to the others, pursued by the posse, when a general firing took place and the same negro was wounded again. One of the robbers had his horse killed, and as he attempted to escape was snot and killed by Wille Kemp, a boy who was snot and killed by Wille Kemp, a boy who was snot and killed by Wille Kemp, a boy who was snot and killed to will be saved to the party. TWEED'S LITTLE BOOK.

Boss to Devote His Leisure in Prison to Writing an Autobiography-Rich Developments Expected.

The Tri-States, of Port Jervis, of Friday gives currency to a report that Big Six at last is going to make revelations of his mode of buying legislatures make revelations of his mode of buying legislatures and manipulating politics. It says:—

A former resident of Port Jervis, who saw Wilham M. Tweed shortly after his conviction, informs us that Mr. Tweed surprised him by stating that he proposed to publish a book, of an autobiographical character, as soon as he can secure time enough to attend to it. Mr. Tweed has carefully kept a diary of his life, and he proposes, now that he occupies a felon's ceil, to give the world some startling disclosures. He proposes to tell his manner of doing business, whom he bought to serve his purposes and what the average price of Albany legislators is. Probably no one man in the country has had so varied an experience in this line as Mr. Tweed, and no man can make such startling revelations. Hundreds of strait-laced, proper-acting people will by this book be shown up in their true hight, and the world at large will get an idea of the inner working of a gigantic ring. We predict for the book an immense sale.

NORTH SEA—COAST OF GERMANY—ALTERATION IN THE RUOTS OF THE WESER.

The usual annual alteration of the buoys in the Weser will take place during detoher. 1873. The nun huoys used during the summer above the lighthouse on the Hoheweg Flat are to be replaced by pointed buoys.

The following buoys will be taken up in the Dwasgat and replaced by iron beacon buoys:—
The red buoy bearing a flag.
The black buoys A, B and C.
These beacon buoys are to be of the same form as those in use below the lightnouse. They will all bear poles 4 leet high, and on these poles the same marks as the buoys which they replace.

The wooden floating beacon near the key buoy will be replaced by an iron beacon buoy, with a pole 9 8-10 feet high, bearing a wicker ball and a yellow key.

This last buoy will be placed in 924 fathoms at low water. From the buoy water, see the buoys water of the property of the placed in 924 fathoms at low water. From the buoy water of lighthouse SSW 4 let ant 4.7-10 miles.
